

Experiencing the World of Japanese Noh Theater

Featuring Hisa and Hikaru Uzawa

Sunday, September 29 • 4–5:30 p.m.
Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre • Open to the Public

An intimate glimpse of one of the world's major performing arts traditions!

Noh theatre combines elements of dance, drama, music and poetry into a dazzling aesthetic form. Tokyo-based Kanze School Noh actors Hisa and Hikaru Uzawa provide a rare opportunity to experience this 650-year-old art. Enjoy a close-up look at the masks, gorgeous costumes and movement forms.

Sponsored by the Smith College Departments of East Asian Languages and Literatures, Theatre, Dance, the Program in East Asian Studies, the Endowed Lecture Fund, the Japan Foundation and the Ada Howe Kent Fund.
