INTERSECTIONAL INEQUITIES: Structural Constraints of Navigating Autism Services

PUBLIC TALK
by Jennifer Singh
Associate Professor of Sociology
Georgia Institute of Technology

Intersectional forms of oppression are central to understanding autism disparities, however little is known about how such disparities are situated at the intersection of race, social class and gender. Drawing on the analytic framework of intersectionality developed by Black feminist scholars, the purpose of this presentation is to offer a grounded theory qualitative analysis based on in-depth interviews with single Black women (mothers and grandmothers) who are navigating autism services within the constraints of Medicaid health insurance and other limited resources.

Friday | October 19 | 3-5pm
83 College Street | Mount Holyoke College

Co-sponsored by the UMASS Amherst Women, Gender, Sexuality Studies Department

For more information, visit https://www.fivecolleges.edu/fcwsrc